

Practical - V

Study, draw, label, classify and write short note on the following
External feature of Scorpion

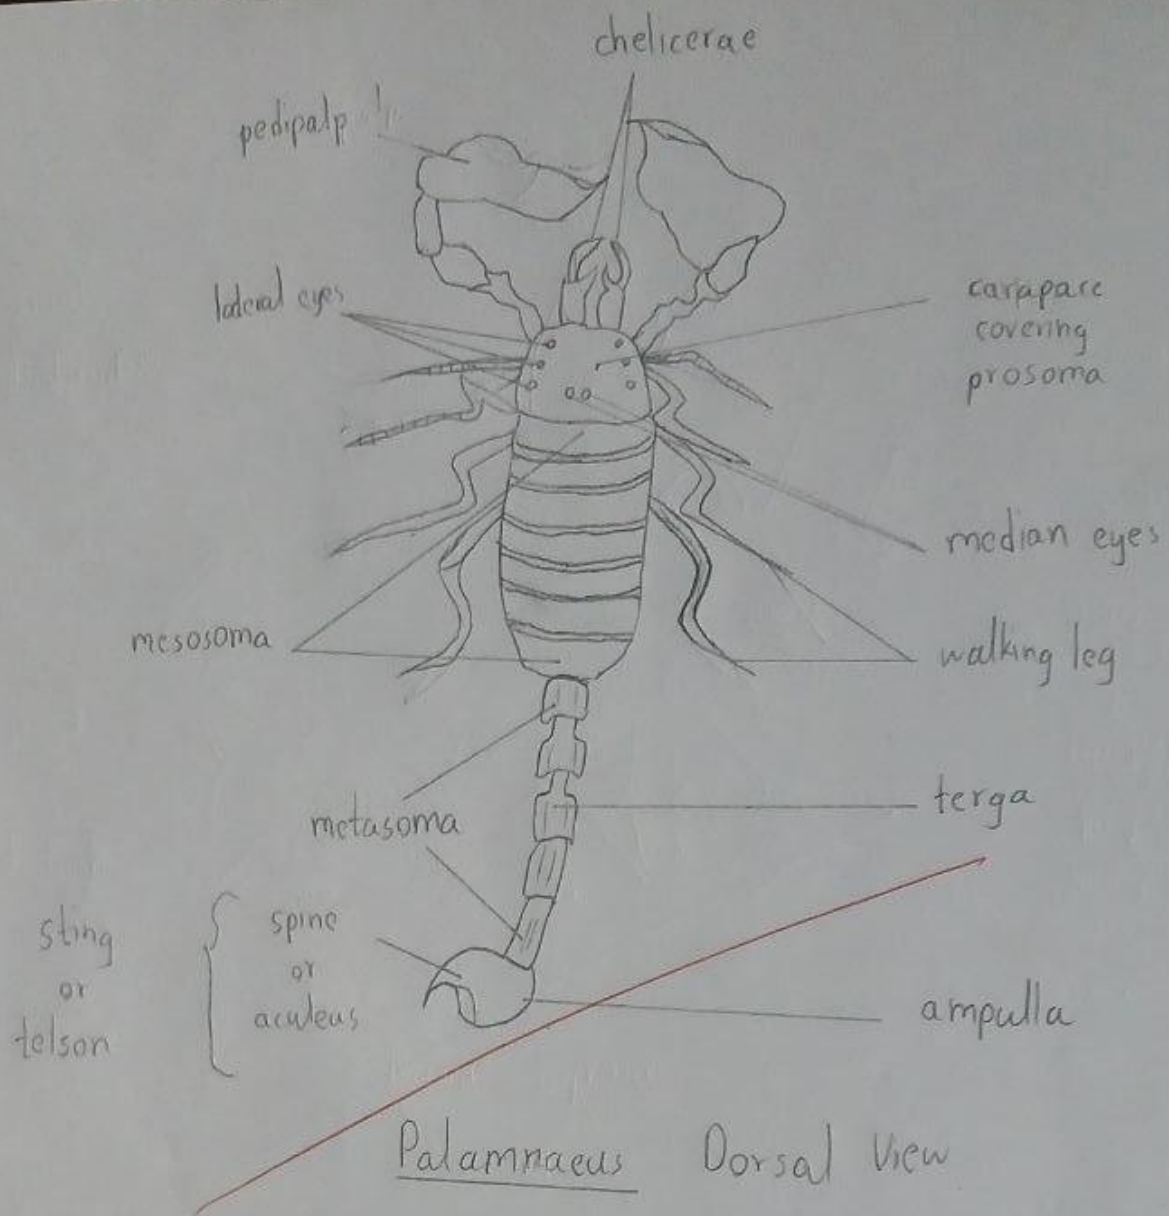

Phylum - Arthropoda

Class - Arachnida

Order - Scorpionidea

Genus - Palamnaeus (Scorpion)

- Palamnaeus is commonly known as scorpion
- Body is elongated, segmented and divisible into anterior prosoma (Cephalothorax), middle mesosoma and posterior metasoma.
- Prosoma is six segmented and bears a pair of median eyes, 2-5 pairs of lateral eyes and six pairs of appendages, i.e. one pair of chelicerae, one pair of pedipalpi and four pairs of walking legs.
- Mesosoma is seven segmented, sternum of first segment bears a genital opening, the sternum of second segment bears a pair of pectines and the sterna of third, fourth, fifth and sixth segments have each laterally a pair of stigmatal opening of book-lungs.
- Metasoma composed of five segments without appendages.
- Last segment of metasoma bears a sting consisting of a ampulla and a spine.
- Respiration by book lungs
- Excretion by Malpighian tubules and coral glands
- Sexes are separate gonads like a network.
- Viviparous.
- Scorpions are harmful to mankind, its sting causes extreme pain, fever and in some cases collapse
- Palamnaeus is nocturnal animal, found under stone, bark of trees or burrow in tropical and subtropical countries

1
24.5.26