

7.6.26
Practical - VII

Study, draw, label, classify and write short note on external features
Hirudinaria granulosa (leech)

Phylum - Annelida

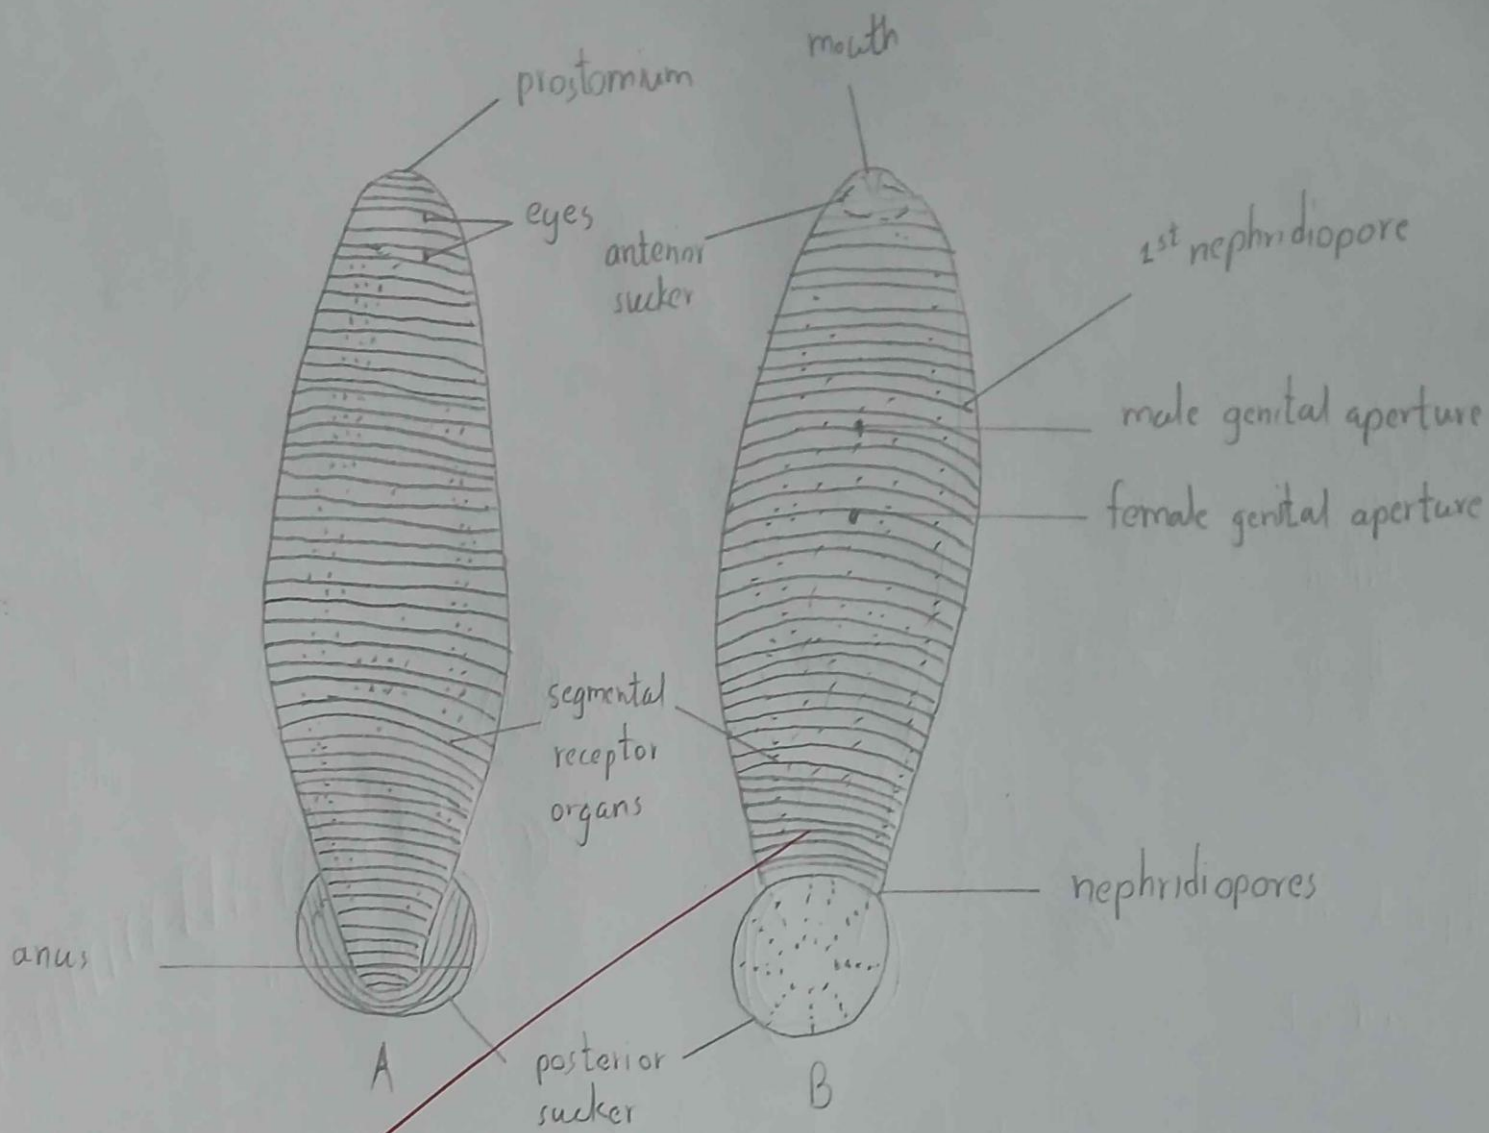

Class - Hirudinea

Order - Gnathobdellida

Genus - Hirudinaria

Species - granulosa

- It is common known as Indian cattle leech.
- Body is elongated, dorso-ventrally flattened, measuring 30-35 cm in length.
- Anterior and posterior suckers are well developed.
- Anterior sucker is oval.
- Posterior sucker is circular.
- Dorsal five segments bear five pairs of eyes.
- Segmental receptors are four pairs on the dorsal surface and three pairs on the ventral surface.
- Anus is mid dorsal on the 25th segment.
- Nephridia are seventeen pairs.
- Nephridiopores on the ventral surface.
- It is hermaphrodite.
- Male genital aperture is situated in 10th segment and female genital aperture is between second and third annuli of 11th segment.
- Sexual reproduction is common.
- Habit and habitat - Hirudinaria is found in freshwater ponds, lakes, slow running streams and swamps. It is sanguivorous (blood-sucking) in habit.
- Distribution - Hirudinaria is cosmopolitan.

Hirudinaria

A. Dorsal view

B. Ventral view

7.6.26